3. Student applications are reviewed by the Scholarship Committee consisting of individuals appointed by the Board of Trustees of the CDGA Foundation. All final decisions and granting of rewards are made by the Scholarship Committee, which volunteers its services. (The Board of Trustees has the right to amend the grants if financial status of the student changes after the original grant is made).
4. Renewals of the award are also granted by the Scholarship Committee after reviewing the past year’s academic performance, income and expense sheets, and the student’s letter of application for renewal. A maximum of four years of aid per student is in place. Scholarships for trade schools can be considered, provided that the potential recipient does not receive more than four years of aid.
5. School selection and course of study are the student’s choice.
6. The total amount of award monies for the current year shall be determined by the Board of Trustees and made available for the Scholarship Committee for the granting of awards.
7. All award checks shall be directed to the designated school administration to be credited to the account of the awardee.
